California, from the Gulf to the St. Lawrence, come the glad tidings of woman's suffering relieved by it; and thousands upon thousands of letters are pouring in from grateful women, saying that it WILL and does positively cure those painful

Ailments of Women. It will cure the worst forms of female complaints, all ovarian troubles, inflammation and ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb, and consequent spinal weakness, and is peculiarly adapted to the change of life.

Every time it will cure Backache.

It has cured more cases of leucorrhora by removing the cause, than any remedy the world has ever known; it is almost infallible in such cases. It dissolves and expels tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills work in unison with the Compound, and are a sure cure for constipation and sickheadache. Mrs. Pinkham's Sanative Wash is frequently found of great value for local application. Correspondence is freely solicited by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., and the strictest confidence assured. All druggists sell the Pinkham's remedies. The Vegetable Compound in three forms, - Liquid, Pills, and Lozenges.

The Daughter of Jenny Lind.

Mrs. Raymond Maude, who is married to a nephew of the present head of the Maude family, Lord Dovercourt, is the daughter of Jenny Lind (Mme. Goldschmidt). Her father, Otto Goldschmidt, who is still living, is the wellknown orchestral conductor and composer. Mrs. Raymond Maude is very musical, and her children also promise to develop lovely voices. Mrs. Raymond Maude is well known as a composer, and her delightful and sympathetic setting of those exquisite little lyrics, "Rhymes About a Little Woman," show promise of attaining an immense and well-deserved popularity. Teeth Reading. Teeth reading is the latest fad in England. The "science" is only in its infancy yet, but the following are two or three of the items which its professors assert to be incontrovertible: "Teeth that are long and narrow denote vanity; projectors indicate a grasping disposition; treachery is best known by small, white, separated molars; inconstancy by overlapping teeth; and the possessor of wide separated ivories is sure to tell all he knows. Those who wear false ones possess a character that the science cannot read."

It was a monument on which was inscribed: 'Abigail Henderson, died On the day we have done no good we aged 96. Put your trust in the Lord and have no confidence in man.' If Abigail had been the recipient of the honor you have showered on me tonight she would have reversed that verdict. If an old writer be true in his observations, the pheasant must be a very simple bird. For he declares that it puts its head in the ground and thinks that all its body is then hidden. This is just what our old friend the ostrich does in the African desert. The same author says that it was also captured by another curious plan. A picture of the bird was painted on cloth and then placed in a spot where it was sure to be seen. By and by a silly pheasant coming along catches sight of the portrait and goes up to have a close view of the new neighbor. While engaged inspecting the canvas, the fowler draws near from behind and throws his net over the unwary art-student.

Human Life Always Seeks Its Lever Human life, which is fluid and not fixed, is like other fluids in seeking a level. It has always done this in times past, and has not rested until it has found the level of equality in some place or other. It once found this in classes; and these became confluent with the gradual effect of time on their borders, and flowed into orders, larger and vaster. At last the larger expanses have begun to burst their bounds and to meet in the immeasurable level of equality of society.-Century.
